

Please do not change Indiana's telemarketer law, it is so nice to sit down in the evening and relax, if the phone rings, it is someone that you WANT to talk to, not a telemarketer that you can't get rid of. If there is something that I'm interested in, be it from a company that considers me an existing customer or one that I have never dealt with, I would be more likely to do business with them if I made the call. In short, I personally would never do business with a telemarketer.
